

THE MONEY MARKET.

SUNDAY, Dec. 19.—R. H.

The value ($7,408,835) of merchandise imported into New-York for the week ended yesterday was about the same as that for the preceding week, $876,817 less than for the same week of 1879, but $3,014,780 greater than for the week of 1878. The value of the exports of merchandise from this port for the week ended Tuesday, December 14, was $7,235,748—or $623,000 less than for the preceding week, but $102,146 greater than for the same week of 1879 and $823,915 more than for the week of 1878. Undoubtedly the exports of last week were much reduced by the almost impossibility of negotiating exchange because of the stringency of the money market. The total value of the merchandise imports at this port from January 1 to December 18 this year is $125,552,910 and $176,638,834 more than for the same time in 1879 and 1878 respectively; while the total value of the exports of the port from January 1 to December 14 this year is only $53,583,977 more than for the same period of 1879, and only $57,765,557 greater than in 1878. The following table shows the total value of the imports and exports of merchandise at New-York, and the respective balances for and against the port, on the business since January 1, for three years:
